commodities in the trans-Atlantic commodities in the trans-Atlantic routes on January 1 and July 1 snows a marked decline in the latter in many instances. The reduction in transportation costs has not been uniform, but has ranged generally from 15 to 30 per cent in the six months.

A significant feature of the comparison is that there has been little change in the general cargo rates, affecting shipments made for the greater part in small parcels. Steamship conferences have been able to maintain fixed schedules for this business, which is not affected to a great extent by the competition of tramp ships. The greatest cuts have been made in such items as provisions, flour, grain, lubricating oil and other commodities which are carried by casual ships as well as those sailing under regular schedules.

Rates on individual commodities do not show a uniform decline to the various ports. This is due to the fact that the last six months have been a period of great turnoil with the disrious ports. This is due to the fact that the last six months have been a period of great turmoil, with the dis-ruption of many conferences. When trouble of this kind develops there is ruption of many contested the trouble of this kind develops there is usually a time of low rates, gradually working back to higher levels.

Rates Vary But Little

Freight costs from this country to the United Kingdom, controlled by the oldest and strongest of the ocean conferences, have shown the least variation in the first half year. With the exceptions of grain, with a decrease of 60 per cent, and sack flour, with a cut from 19 to 17 cents a 100 pounds, there have been few changes of great importance on berth rates. Automobiles dropped from 35 to 15 cents a cubic foot and lubricating oil from 60 to 45 cents a 100 pounds. Conference lists show no difference in provisions or general cargo.

Rates from New York to the various continental ports indicate the cross currents which have been at work this year. Most commodities show a decline, but a few record gains. Grain rates to Bremen and Hamburg declined from 18 to 14 cents a 100 pounds, while to Havre and Bordeaux there was an increase from 14 to 18 and 20 cents reincrease from 14 to 18 and 20 cents, re-about 25 per cent, with the exception of the United Kingdom. Shipments to Bremen, Hamburg, Rotterdam, Amsterdam and Antwerp fell from a level of 32½ and 35 cents to 25 cents. Quotations on cotton were largely unchanged except that there was an increase to German and Dutch ports of about 25 per cent. Rates to Italian ports declined about one-third. Rates on automobiles and lubricating oil declined 30 per cent to Continental European ports.

The end of the first six months of The end of the first six months of the year finds shipping still in a state of extreme depression, with nothing in sight at the moment that indicates a definite upward turn. Only a revival of foreign commerce of large proportions would be sufficient to employ the ships now idle. It is the hope of steamship officials that improved conditions abroad will result in a heavier trade movement, which will aid shipping as well.

It is on the French Line vessels that the traveler finds the subtle atmosphere and charm of France—so delightfully novel. Not only are the accommodations magnificent, especially on the giant liners S. S. PARIS and S. S. FRANCE, but there is a refinement of service that is truly distinctive as well as a caising Francaise that is world famous. The Celebrated Orchestras and the Guignette Unique Punch and July Show—are other features that make a voyage as our vessels one long to be remembered.
